A Strong Attraction.

"A Romance of Coon Hollow" which will be seen at the opera house next Wednesday night has some of the most exquisite scenery on the road. The first act reveals an autumn view of a typical southern plantation, with sunset and moonlight effects, and contains a splendid electrical display. The second act is a far-study of "Coon Hollow," a rugged glen in the Tennessee hills, painted from sketches made on the spot, and is made sensational by a strong and thrilling climax. The third act shows a wood landing on the Mississippi, and a night view of the famous Lee-Natchez steamboat race, the boats being lighted up and under full head of steam. The last act is given to an actual cotton compress in operation, and is thrillingly dramatic. The play will be given here with all the effects used in the original run at the Fourteenth street theatre in New York. In the wood landing scene is introduced a rollicking melody of songs and dances by a troupe of colored boys and girls, including a splendid quartette of vocalists. The play is now in its twelfth successful season on the road and is one of the most popular entertainments travelling. A select company will interpret the strong characters. Tickets Monday night.
